

Open Call for Application - Training Design Specialist

Eurodesk Brussels Link is seeking a training design specialist to carry out the development of two modules for the Qualifying Training Programme to be published in Spring/Summer 2021. The themes of the modules are:

Mentoring, Counselling & Support

This module has the aim of equipping Eurodesk's mobility advisors with up-to-date approaches and tools for guiding young people. It should explore the concepts of empathic communication, identifying youth needs, feedback and guidance and support-related skills.

Inclusion

This module has the aim to educate our mobility advisors in inclusive approaches in information and counselling services. It should explore the objectives of outreach and communication with diverse target groups, such as but not limited to, young people with disabilities, from rural and/or various socio-economic backgrounds. The module should consider various aspects of inclusion, such as disability, gender and minority outreach and participation.

Conditions of service:

- Each module should consist of at least 12 hours of training material, supported by any necessary templates or annexes.
- Each module should be consistent with and build on the skills assessment identified in Eurodesk's Mobility Advisor Competence Framework.
- Each module should include alternatives for how to carry out the activities digitally.
- All work should be provided in a word document version and fit the template of the current Qualifying Training Programme.
- The Consultant will be credited in the document and production of the module. Eurodesk owns the rights to adapt, change and update the content as they see fit.
- The foreseen work is to take place from January to May 2021 including feedback rounds and frequent communication with Eurodesk Brussels Link staff.

We are looking for one or two consultants on the two topics. To submit your proposal, we ask you to provide us with an overview of your expertise and a quote estimation for the cost of service (Eurodesk works with 280 EUR as a daily rate).

Please send your application no later than 15 November 2020 to safi.sabuni@eurodesk.eu reference: Training Design Specialist.
